The Republicans of the Committee presented a min 1ity report, very conservative in its nature, which entitles them to the gratitude of every well-wisher of the country. It calls attention to the figures of the Secretary of the Treasury, which accompany the report, and says the conclusions of the majority seem Wallie in the air, "You are solid," wholly unwarranted and misleading, and concludes with these sensible words: In fact there seems to be an me." utter lack of evidence to justify any of the criticisms of the majority upon the statement of the Secretare. which shows a surplus in the Treasury on June the 30, 1894. On the basis of the statement of the Secretary of the Treasury it would seem that the amount of either surplus or deficiency in the Treasury on June 30, 1894, would be very small. Ex-Secretary Rusk, who is considered a personal friend by every curploye of department of Agriculture, was this week given a lasting testimonial of their friendship for him in the shape of a hundsome silver tea ssrvice. UNDER CROSS FIRE.

A Thrilling Story of the battle of Gettysburg related.

As Exchange of Shatsut Long Intervals, kottowed by an Anin'l Din ul Stattle Walting to meet ins timrge. [PENNSVIA A. IVIGRIT.] On the morning of the 3d of July, 100,000 on the field of Gettysburg knew that Lee would attact that day. By 10 o'clock in the forenoon every one knew where the blow would fall. The topography of the field, the bloody struggles on the wings, the movement of the troops and the batteriesthere were a dozen signs to indicate what was coming. From daylight to 9 o'clock there was a sputter of musketry along the front as the sharpshooters and skirmishers fired at long range. From 9 to if the envalry on the wings had the fight all to themselves. From to to to a gun here and there shelled the Confederate skirmishers out of the litches in which they were hiding, but there seemed to be no lighting anywhere. From 11 to 12 Lee was massing 120 field pieces in front of cock. Meade posted 100 gins to re- knee. ply, but to fire slowly.

At noon a few couriers were riding furiously in different directions, but not a gun was being fired. The men in the line ate their dinner from their haversacks, and the artillery horses nibbled at the grass as they were unchecked by their drivers. Scores of men had pocket telescopes. These they passed from hand to hand, and every gun on the Confederate side was located. "They are going to batter us with shot and shell and then charge. convince the people that the tithing Whenever I go to my work, I feel that Lie close to the ground. Joe Mullen broughtdown a nicebulk of gameatoneshot at the Hanning distillery this morning. At an early hour he noticed a deer at the chute crossing from the Indiana to the Kentucky side. He waited for the "fine old fellow" to get in good range and fired. The first load took effect in the deer's neck and would have eaused its death, but Mr. Mullen didn't want to take any risk and so let fly with another load which entered the deer's body center. About 9:30 o'clock another deer was seen on the river bank just below the Hanning. Some of the hands at the distillery and some men who were unloading a barge of corn got the animal penned in a corner and caught it

The Losey Entertalument. A few weeks ago what bids fair to be a very important event in the history of our town took place. We mean the organization on a permanent footing, of the Hartford Lecture Club. The object of the organization s to bring within the reach of the people of Hartford and Ohio county the advantage of a series of high class entertainments. The institution is a worthy one and deserves to live long. It gives to our people something the like of which we see and hear too litle. The Club secured for their first nent elocutionist, Frederick D. Losey, of New York, and the meeting held on Monday night, last. A large crowd gathered early to hear the treat that every one felt was in store. The rostrum had been artistically decorated and presented quite a pleasing appearance. Promptly at 8:15 the speaker was introduced by Prof. J. W. Lytle, President of the Club, and for an hour and a half Prof. Losey held complete sway over his audience. His pieces were varied and appropriwould be difficult to choose the best from a collection so uniformly good. The only objection offered to the entertainment is that it was too short, credit for their excellent management of the affair, and the people owe a debt of gratitude for the rare treat. We shall look forward with pleasant anticipation to the next in the series of entertainments. Let it come quickly.

A little child of John May's and a larger boy, from Hamilton, came to town to visit a sick brother. The little child went out to play and the big boy got the five year old child and run off and leit it and it was found at Mrs. Martin's, more than a mile away. When the child came to the house, Mrs. Martin sent the news to town and what seemed to be a fruitless search for the little wanderer was turned into a general rejoicing; and especially, were the father and mother rejoiced. I will close for this time, hoping that this will not find the waste bas-

A Recipe For Beauty.

A recipe for beauty! Who shall compound it! It is easy to say that we must have good health, good temper, good breeding, happiness. Ruskin says pithily, "You can never make a girl lovely unless you make her happy." Tranquillity of life, ability to rest, freedom from heavy burdens, luxury, these help; but, after all, beauty, like glory, is the untranslatable word.—Harper's Bazar.

There will never be any soreness—no swelling—no matterating—no "laying up." She can run again to-morrow. Is such a remedy worth anything? It cures just as readily any fresh wound, any cut, bruise, burn, scald or old sore. Internally it cures any colic, dyspepsia, pain in slomach, diarrhea, dysentery or flux. Also it cures promptly any sorethront, bronchitis or consumption (if iungs not already disorganized.) In a word it cures ANY INFLAMMATION anywhere and the disease, whatever its name, vanishes. TOWN TATTLER.

Has it ever occurred to you that many times moral and intellectual worth counts for very little with a young lady when she chooses her gentleman associates or husband? Too many times young men of very questionable morals, fast young men, corrupt, lecherous gambling young men are welcomed in the parlor of the first ladies of the land and sometimes their company is even almost openly sought, while the young men of good habits, good breeding, good sense, good morals; young men who are noble in heart and virtuous in life knock in vain at the threshold of these fashionable homes, seeking the association or perchance even the hand of the fair inmate. Why Is this thus? Can It be the young ladies are ignorant of the life of those gay young men? Then, shame on their fathers and brothers who know it and who keep their daughters and sisters lgnorant of things they should fully understand. Is it because the moral young man is not sufficiently polished or is it due to a careless depraved taste on the part of the young lady, who, in short, connives at the wanton life of her unworthy suitor and relishes his suggestive conduct? These things should not be. Many a young lady has lost an opportunity of winning a good husband by receiving the attentions of a man without honor. Girls, be brave and womanly, snub every man whom you have reason to believe has not a pure heart. Cousider him a pearl of great price, who, though he be not so wealthy nor so pollshed, offers to bring as his gift to the matrimonial altar a character unstained. Cling to him as to your

Every man in Hartford who expects to vote for whisky should have heard the declamation of Miss Laura Render at the Baptist Sunday School Sunday morning. But as a majority of those of our esteemed citizens who are expected to cast their suffrages for the spread of intemperance are not distinguished for any great regularity in attending either Church or Sunday School, the piece, which, by the way, was written by Dr. Seiss, is reproduced here. Read it and then be brave enough to vote as your conscience dictates:

The history of strong drink is the depravity's worst fruits, a giant demon of destruction. Men may talk of earthquake, storms, conflagrations, famine, pestilence, despotism, and war, but intemperance in the use of Ohio. intoxicating drinks has sent a volume of misery and woe into the stream of this world's history more fearlul and terrific than any of them.

It is the Amazon and the Misissippi among the rivers of wretchedness. It is the Alexander and Napoleon among the warriers upon the peace and good of man. It is an evil which is limited to no age, no continent, no nation, no party, no sex, no period in life. It has taken the poor man at his toil, and the rich man at his desk; the senators in the halls of state, and the drayman on the streets; the young man in his festivities, and the old man in his repose, and then plunged them into a common ruin. It has raged equally in thmes of war and In times of peace, in periods of depression and in periods of prosperity, in republics and monarchies, among the civilized and among the savages.

Since the time that Noah eame out of the ark, and planted vineyards, and drank of their wines, we read in all histories of Its terrible doings, and never once lose sight of its black and bloody tracks. States have recorded enactments against it, ecclsiastical penalties have been imposed upon it, societies have succeeded societies for its extermination, but, like him whose name was Legion, no man has been able to bind it.

It was strong drink that brought the original curse of servitude upon the descendants of Ham, that has eaten away the strength of empires, wasted the energies of states, blotted out the names of families, and crowded hell with tenants. Egypt, the source of science; Babylon, the wonder and glory of the world; Greece, the home of learning and of liberty; Rome, the mistress of the earth, each in its turn had its heart lacerated by this dreadful cunker-worm, and thus became an easy prey to the destroyer.

It has drained tears enough to make a sea, expended treasure enough to exhaust Goleonda, shed blood enough to redden the waves of every ocean, and wrung out wailing enough to make a chorus to the lamentation of the under-world. One reason why Scott's Emulsion of Pure No wegran Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Limand Soda has had such a large rale is because it is "Almost as pulatable as milk;" but the best reason is that its curative properties are unequalled. It cores the cough, supplies the waste of tissues, produces flesh and builds up the entire system.

Secti's Emulsion cares Coughs. Colds, Consumption, Scrofula, and all Angemio and Wasting Diseases. Provents wasting in children. Almost as publishe as falls. Get only the genuine. Propared by Scott & Howne, Chemists, New fork. Sold by att Druggists.
